

TAKE A DEEP BREATH

The cells in our bodies need oxygen to function. They produce carbon dioxide as a waste product. The reason you breathe is to make sure new oxygen is taken in from the air, and that carbon dioxide is exhaled out. The exchange of these gases happens deep inside the lungs, across a thin membrane and tiny blood vessels.

Disney
BE HEALTHY
BE ACTIVE